The Department of the Interior's Bureau of Reclamation will continue to administer those rights and obligations of the United States which relate to irrigation pumping and project use loads. As of October 1, 1977, execution of Amendment No. 1 to Contract No. 14-06-300-2050 was in process by the contract parties. In order to simplify completion of the Amendment and since division of administrative responsibility for the contract was not firmly established at the time of the Amendment's execution, signature on behalf of the United States was required only from the Bureau of Reclamation. However, because of the joint interest of the two departments in the contract, future modification will require signature for both the Department of Energy and the Department of the Interior on behalf of the United States.
